

Virtual Training Opportunity

Culturally Responsive Services

Tuesday, July 25th, 2023

Start: 2:00 PM ET End: 4:15 PM ET

Instructors: Khalil Martin, LSW & Ryan Villagran, LSW

Many service providers have been taught the value of cultural competence in working with diverse populations. Indeed, cross-cultural clinical work is a frequent occurrence when serving communities of people with marginalized identities. This training presents the concept of cultural humility as supplemental to the work of cultural competence. Presenters will offer strategies to move beyond the idea that we can ever truly become competent in another person's culture, and explore opportunities to affirm and support our clients. Through use of case studies, we will review concepts of intersectionality and micro-aggressions for a fuller understanding of the ways culture shows up in service provision, and offer tools for a humbler cultural practice.

Learning objectives:

When attendees return to the workplace, they will be able to:

- Define the need to implement culturally responsive services
- Define cultural humility and compare and contrast with cultural competence
- Identify at least three ways to adjust current practice to align with a cultural humility framework

Target Audience: Social service providers and helping professionals working with marginalized communities and minority groups.

Khalil received his Master's degree in clinical social work from The University of Pennsylvania.

Ryan Villagran, LSW (they/them) joined Housing First University in June 2021 as a Training Specialist. Ryan holds a Master of Social Work from Temple University with a concentration in Communities & Policy.
